

Spring 2023 Course Catalog

Bible 216 - Romans (3 credits)

This course covers an in-depth study of the book of Romans including its theological significance and practical application to our lives. The course is structured with exegetical lectures covering each chapter in Romans along with several further theological lectures on topics such as justification, God's sovereignty, and biblical covenants. Over the course of the semester, students will complete 6 homework assignments such as a Romans outline, word study, or Old Testament quotes worksheet. Students will also complete 6 essay assignments answering questions such as "What about those who have never heard the gospel?" and "What does it look like to live a genuine Christian life?" There will also be quizzes in each class period and a midterm and final exam.
